

These 25 Banks Harbor Nuclear Secrets That Could Vaporize Your Wealth

There's a Fuse Box Buried Deep within the U.S. Economy... and it's About to Blow...When it does, the lights on the dimming U.S. economy will go black...

“Derivatives the new 'ticking time-bomb' ...
Buffett and Gross warn: $516 trillion bubble is a disaster waiting to happen”

—MarketWatch, March 10, 2008

But even as the broader markets get blown to bits, a small clutch of little-known investments will rise. If you retreat to these investments NOW, you could watch your wealth soar as everyone around you comes undone in the final unraveling of the U.S. economy...

Fall 2008

- THE PHANTOM ECONOMY. It's 49 times the size of the real physical economy of the U.S. – that's about to blow...Buffett calls it: “a mega-catastrophe waiting to happen...”
- THE BANK'S NUCLEAR SECRETS. Hidden financial time bombs lying in America's big banks have begun to detonate. In fact, they're the real reason behind the sub-prime massacre. But the worst is yet to come!
- THE NEW DEMON DERIVATIVE OF WALL STREET. Bill Gross (the legendary bond fund manager) believes they may be the banks' most “egregious concoctions” to date.
- FALL-OUT SHELTERS. Three of the safest places for your wealth right now...where you will not only maintain a low risk exposure – but you could still rack up gains of as much as 1,794% ... and more (just as a small group of well-informed investors did in the bear market of 2002).

- THE NEW MEGA-TRENDS. How to privately cash in on major new economic mega-trends that until now have largely been “off-limits” to you – including “secret funds” that soared 187% and 52% through a time when most American mutual funds got slaughtered. These funds could soar 2-5 times that amount in the coming crash...
- THE ULTIMATE CRISIS INVESTING TECHNIQUE. This little-known technique helped some investors make 18 times their money on a single recommendation...and could produce 2 - 3 times those gains in 2008 and 2009.
- TWO CRISIS-PROOF COMMODITIES. (and six of the easiest ways to cash in on them!)

The Derivatives Time Bomb “A Demon of Our Own Design”

Deep in the shadows of the real economy lies an underground economy where the world’s largest financial players conduct secret transactions worth trillions of dollars.

These transactions are made far away from the headlines of the evening news. You’ll seldom read about them in The Wall Street Journal...and you’ll rarely hear about them on CNN – yet they affect every investment you make: Your stocks, your bonds, your mutual funds – even your real estate.

Financially they act like a giant underground fuse box...whose financial currents (though invisible) are channelled through to the real world of day-to-day investments. In the same way, unseen electrical currents power our physical world, so too do these unseen financial currents secretly power our economy.

Occasionally, though, something happens. A country’s economy blows up...or a bank...or an investment fund...that reveals the catastrophic power these financial currents carry. We “Derivatives are financial weapons of mass destruction...time bombs, both for the parties that deal in them and the economic system... The macro picture is dangerous and getting more so...”

witnessed their affects when world stock markets collapsed in 1987...when Asian markets plummeted in 1997...and when the LTCM hedge fund collapsed in 1998. But even these devastating events could pale in comparison to what lies ahead.

A series of events have begun to unfold, which are about to short-circuit the system and cause this giant underground fuse box to blow. When it does, we may bear witness to the largest financial upheaval since 1929...and the lights on our dimming economy will indeed go black.

Get ready, dear reader, for the final unravelling of the American economy...

and position yourself to reap explosive profits by investing in a small clutch of little-known investment opportunities that are positioned to soar when almost everything else comes crashing down...

“...poorly structured derivatives of all kinds that redistribute risk, but don't eliminate it, portend the likelihood of another LTCM debacle...Greenspan is clearly off base in his support of derivatives and their medicinal 'hedging' qualities.”

—Bill Gross, the legendary bond fund manager

And this is not just a promise. A small group of investors have already reaped gains of up to 1,794% and 797% by cashing in on these little-known investment techniques. I'll tell you about these investments in a moment —and why I expect similar opportunities this year—but first let me tell you about the single most disturbing development that has occurred in the global financial system in the last generation. It's a development that could have dire financial consequences...and for which most investors are woefully unprepared...

BENEFITING FROM CRISIS:

Learn How One Group of Investors Managed to Get In On 1,794% and 797% Gains as the Market Melted and the Dollar Fell

(And Discover How You Can Take Advantage of Similar Opportunities in 2008/2009)

In this report you'll learn about the single greatest threat the US economy and financial markets have faced in more than a generation. It's a ticking financial time bomb whose effects could dwarf by orders of magnitude those of the S&L crisis of the late '80s...

But armed with the right information and a unique insight into today's markets — there is no reason to panic. Instead, you could realize a decade's worth of profits in a year, sometimes months.

For example, when the dollar crashed in 2002, one group of investors learned how to turn the crisis into explosive gains by correctly anticipating the negative effects the war and other economic disasters would have on the dollar. We showed our readers staggering gains of 1,794% and 797% by recommending a little-known technique that allowed members to “rent” large amounts of hard currencies – risking only a small amount of money. And members reaped a further 25% on a conservative CD investment.

And that was just on the dollar crisis. Since March 2000, members have also seen double- and triple-digit gains on six of the gold stocks we've picked. Plus we've enjoyed an impressive track record by taking advantage of a revolutionary new way to invest in a group of special funds. These unique types of funds have historically outperformed traditional mutual funds year after year. The best of them has been up 2,319% over the last seven and a half years! Yet, until recently, they were only a tool for well-informed, wealthy investors.

Yet even these numbers will pale in comparison to the profits we expect to see when the U.S. economy finally unravels.

My name is John Pugsley. I am Chairman of an elite group of international investment analysts called The Sovereign Society. We are one of the world's most private – yet powerful — financial alliances. We operate far away from the corruption, greed and conflicts of interest that are epidemic on Wall Street. Through an unrivalled team of more than 30 international experts, banking insiders, economists, forecasters, analysts, asset protection specialists, currency and precious metal experts, we are able to steer a maverick group of American and foreign investors through economic storms safely and surely – even help them come out of it richer than before. We invite you to become one of those subscribers today...and start reaping the same kind of mega-profits others have been enjoying since March 2000 when the great unravelling of the American economy began.

For decades, our experts have accurately predicted major economic trends and disasters. In the early '70s I wrote a book called Common Sense Economics, which accurately predicted the inflationary explosion in America...and helped investors get rich off gold.

And since 1999, we've been recommending our members retreat from mainstream investments to a small clutch of alternative investment opportunities that have been soaring since March 2000.

In this report, I'll tell you more about these investment opportunities. Plus, I'll tell you about the single most disturbing development that we've been monitoring in the global financial system...a development that could have dire financial consequences...but which could also lead to profits of up to 1,794% – for those who are prepared.

The Phantom Economy — 49 times the size of the U.S. economy — that's about to blow...

In the past decade a giant and potentially lethal economic bubble has been quietly forming in the Over-The-Counter Derivatives market. If you don't know what that is, you're not alone. Most investors are completely unaware of what goes on behind closed doors at banks, major brokerage houses and leading corporations.

But know this: Derivatives have been at the core of almost every major economic disaster since 1987. They were responsible for Black Monday. They were behind the Asian crisis, the LTCM hedge fund disaster, the fall of Barings Bank, the bankruptcy of Orange County and the collapse of Enron and Argentina.

"The Risk That Won't Go Away"

Cover story on the dangers of derivatives from Fortune Magazine

And they'll soon be responsible for what could turn out to be the greatest economic disaster yet. For the popularity of these notorious financial instruments has erupted at an alarming rate. Their explosive growth has given birth to an underground economy – so powerful and so complex – that no one really understands it. Not Buffett – not even Greenspan. Yet one thing is clear to all: This "Phantom Economy" carries threats that have the power to blow up the U.S. financial system.

At their very simplest – a derivative is merely a bet. And it can be a bet on absolutely anything – interest rates, exchange rates, stocks, commodities or the weather – even the ability of your neighbour to pay back his mortgage! For instance, you could bet on the number of tornadoes that will hit Kansas in 2008. Find a counter-party who's willing to wager against you and you'll have created a derivative. And to make the bet, you often only have to put down a fraction of the amount. For example, if you wanted to bet $1 million on tornadoes in Kansas you may only need to put down $10,000 – just one one-hundredth of the value.

This is where derivatives can become very dangerous. Derivatives are mostly used to hedge against risk. But they are also used to make highly leveraged and highly dangerous bets.

For instance, a single bet made by one rogue trader in 1995 brought down the proud 223-year old. This age-old institution helped finance the rise of the Great British Empire in the 19th Century. And an unmonitored 27-year old hotshot derivatives trader brought it down with one wild bet.

“...at some time in the future it (the derivatives trading market) could bring the world's financial system to its knees.”

—Sir Julian Hodge
Senior Welsh Banker

Even worse — the derivatives trading of a single hedge fund in 1998 almost caused the collapse of the entire global financial system. This hedge fund – Long-Term Capital Management — was not even known by the mainstream investor public at the time, yet its private derivatives bets would have collapsed world markets if the Fed had not organized an emergency bailout.

“Only one in 10 CEOs [has] any in-depth knowledge of the sophisticated financial instruments (derivatives)”

—Stephen Mader,
CEO of search firm
Christian & Timbers in The Times

And more recently, when Ford and GM's $375 million debt was downgraded to junk status, it sent derivatives traders scrambling, and caused ripples throughout the global economy.

“The Next Three Rogue Traders” And How They Could Devastate Your Financial Future...

Despite repeated efforts by concerned parties to tame the rank bubble growing in the derivatives market, Greenspan refused to let them be regulated during his entire tenure as Federal Chairman. He claimed derivatives were good for the economy...that they provided for an efficient, flexible and safer financial system...

But was he telling the truth?

In an address to the Council of Foreign Relations on November 19, 2002, on the topic of derivatives, he admitted that there was a “remote possibility” that they could cause a chain reaction that would culminate in a financial implosion.

Even more worrisome in a speech Greenspan gave to bankers in May 2000, he admitted that: “The rapid growth and increasing importance of derivative instruments...has been a particular concern.”

Yet Greenspan still allowed the bubble to grow unchecked until he bowed out of his office in 2006.

But now his tone has changed. In a recent article in London's Financial Times, Greenspan was quoted to have been “shocked at the way (derivatives) trades had been recorded on scraps of paper.” And that he found “failure of dealers to improve on this “19th-century technology” to be “unconscionable.” This was after the industry's leading lobbying group released a disconcerting survey which revealed that one in every five credit derivatives trades made by big dealers initially contained mistakes. Now, to quote a recent Business Week article, even Greenspan is “starting to sound concerned,” and has admitted that investors could face “unanticipated losses” because of the rapid growth of the derivatives market.

The Biggest and Most Dangerous Myth about Derivatives

Like most professional betting games – derivatives have a zero-sum outcome. There will always be a winner and a loser. The bettors put up their money. And the people who run the casino, bank or brokerage house, figure out ways to pass on the risk. One of the biggest myths about derivatives is that they reduce risk. They do not. They simply transfer risk to someone else who is willing to bear it. The risks being taken in the derivatives market are growing greater and greater each day.

The alchemy of derivatives rests on complicated mathematical models that predict how markets and derivatives will behave under certain conditions. The models use past market performance to predict the future. But they can't account for the unaccountable. Every once in a while an asteroid strikes or a country blows up...which throws these delicately balanced derivatives portfolios off their axis. Trades take place in electronic never land and can be entered from anywhere in the world. And computers are enabling the creation of purer and purer financial plutonium. And, as with nuclear mishaps, there are no small accidents. Get ready for “The Chernobyl of the Financial World”...

Yet the bubble continued to grow...

In 1988, the global derivatives market was just over $1 trillion. Today that figure has reached a staggering $692 trillion. What's more disturbing is that nearly one-third of these derivatives are concentrated in the hands of just three American banks: JP Morgan Chase, Bank of America and Citibank. These banks account for a mind-bending $166 trillion of the global derivatives market (as of 1Q08).

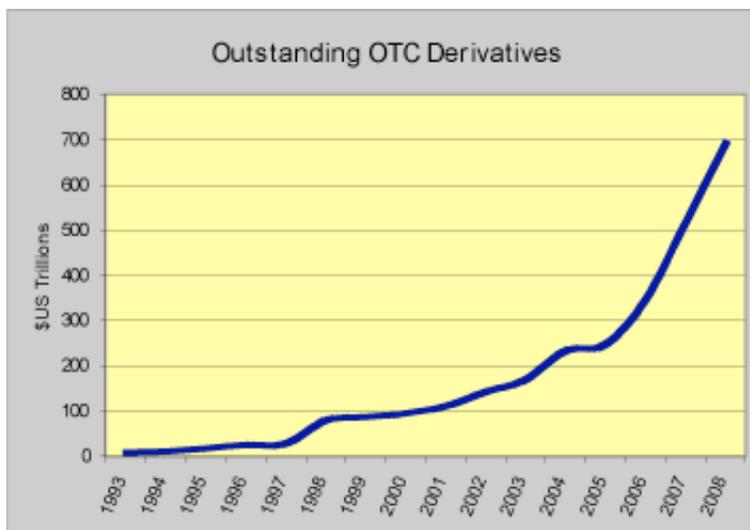

What's more, all these derivatives deals are done behind closed doors by a few powerful men...men who are dangerously balancing your future on a complicated portfolio of derivatives bets, the form of which nobody knows. These men have been allowed to freely create monumental derivatives portfolios without investors and bank depositors even remotely aware of the mounting tidal wave of risk. Their moves have gone completely unchecked – and they have no responsibility whatsoever to report or describe any of their moves to their shareholders.

One bad move...one unexpected crisis...could blow these banks' delicately balanced derivatives portfolios off their axis and spin world financial markets into an unprecedented collapse.

And because the numbers have gotten so big...and the risks so high...banks recoil whenever the topic of derivatives is raised...

But now they have to start talking...

The Coming Implosion of the Largest Casino Economy Ever Created

A chain of events is unfolding right now that has started to set off these financial time bombs one by one. If you don't act now your retirement may go up in smoke...

America's big banks are carrying hidden risks that no one has warned you about. And they're all tied up in these banks' derivatives portfolios...

The problem few investors understand is that with most derivative bets you have to supply an amount of cash collateral to the counter-party to cover your bet. This amount depends on the institution's credit rating. If the institution starts to get into financial difficulties, its credit rating will drop, which means it'll have to supply yet more cash collateral to its counter-party. This could cause a liquidity crisis, which may lead to a further downgrade, which could set off a downward spiral. And if one major bank falls, they'll all start to topple like dominoes.

The frightening thing is: This nightmare scenario has already begun.

And in a moment, I'll show you what the world's wealthiest investors are doing right now to shelter themselves from this coming crash...and how they're already using this technique to access "forbidden" investments and opportunities that posted gains like 187%...70%...55%...82%...167%, And which promise to soar much higher when the economic house of cards starts to fall.

Wall Street's New Culture of Risk

In the past few years Wall Street's big banks have transformed themselves from traditional investment banks into high-risk, freewheeling traders. From institutions once engaged in such conservative activities like underwriting securities, advising on mergers and acting as brokers (arranging trades between clients), they have now begun to transform themselves into the biggest risk-taking machines global markets have ever seen.

In the past, the banks rarely put much of their own capital at risk. Now they are making increasingly larger bets with their own assets. What's more, they're borrowing vast amounts of money to jack up the risk even more. And they're doing it to grasp for high returns on everything from distressed Chinese businesses to Iraqi bonds...from Brazilian-based corporations to catastrophe bonds...from Jakarta stocks to highly leveraged derivatives bets.

Wall Street's big banks are now doing more trading than all the biggest hedge funds. And we know what happened with LTCM in 1998.

As Warren Buffett said at his last Berkshire Hathaway annual meeting: "A world where huge amounts of leverage have been brought into the system is a dangerous world."

And now the worst derivatives disaster is upon us.

And we believe it'll prove to be the Mother of All Economic Disasters.

The New Demon Derivative of Wall Street

Bill Gross, the legendary bond investor, believes it is one of the banks' most "egregious concoctions" to date! It's called a CDO (Collateralized Debt Obligation). And in this decade, they have proliferated like wildfire.

The investment derives its value from the sub-prime mortgage markets. They are basically bets on whether the average American homeowner with a poor credit rating can make his monthly mortgage payment or not. Because of the higher risk they entail, they also come with higher rewards.

And in a world of low interest rates, low inflation and easy credit, they were a gloriously effortless way for banks and hedge funds to reach for yield. The risk was low and the reward high...at least until everything started to go wrong...and these risky bets began to rapidly unwind...

You see, as I mentioned before, these derivative bets are bought on an enormous amount of leverage. The banks and hedge funds need only put a small amount of money down to cover their bets. This is how they magnify their returns many times over. But the problem is the amount they have to put down is based upon the institution's credit rating. If their credit rating is downgraded, then they have to put up more money to cover the bet. In order to do that the bank must sell its investments. Problem is, it's unable to sell the investments it would like to sell (like it's CDOs) — because nobody wants them, so it has to sell its good investments (like its stocks). And naturally when things sell, prices drop, which causes further selling, and so on...

"The best place to look for a market to go straight down is the richest country."

James Dale Davidson and Lord William Rees-Mogg in The Great Reckoning

And that's what we are seeing in global markets right now. It's why stocks, investments and markets that seem far removed from the sub-prime mortgage meltdown are being affected by it. It is the dry kindling for the financial firestorm that we are only now just starting to see whip down Wall Street.

Wall Street's Greatest Fear Unfolds!

America's banks right now are like a bunch of climbers on a mountain all tied by a rope. J.P. Morgan Chase, Citibank and Bank of America are at the top of the rope. If any one of them falls, the others could start to topple down the mountain with them – along with the American economy. The end result could be unprecedented...

But it's not just these three banks. Twenty-two more banks harboring these nuclear secrets (not to mention hundreds more hedge funds are in similar positions).

"So dominant is Morgan Chase in the derivatives market that its exposure looks like typographical errors"

Jim Grant of
Jim Grant's Interest Rate Observer

And their greatest fear has started to unfold.

Write-downs on just these new demon derivatives (subprime CDOs) are already over a quarter of a trillion dollars. But there's more to come. Problem is no one knows exactly how much. But it doesn't matter, because the blizzard of downgrades has already begun. Citibank, Lehman Brothers, Merrill Lynch and Morgan Stanley have just been downgraded. And according to Standard & Poor's many more, including the derivative king, JP Morgan, are likely to be next.

As these bad derivative bets continue to unwind, more and more banks and hedge funds will get downgraded, and they will be forced to put up more cash collateral, which will lead to further downgrades, which could set off a downward spiral.

In 1998, when LTCM failed, the government had to organize an emergency bailout – forcing the hands of a consortium of big banks and investment houses to fork over $3.5 billion dollars to save the economy.

But that was just one hedge fund with "only" a trillion dollars of derivatives on its books.

“J.P. Morgan Chase’s dabbling in derivatives makes it too big for even the Federal Reserve to bail out.”

John Crudele, New York Post

Today, we are talking about dozens of banks and hundreds of hedge funds with hundreds of trillions of dollars of derivatives on their books.

If a series of them were to fail, a chain of interlocking commitments would break down and major institutions would start to topple. Widespread panic selling would ensue. And there would be a run on the banks...and a run on stocks. But most will find their money trapped in a crashing market and a financial system that is splitting at the seams.

Few know it, but if the Dow drops 10% in any one trading day, circuit breakers will kick in...and markets will close down...just as they did after September 11. But the problem with circuit breakers is: They may halt the panic selling but they don’t come with an “on” switch to bring the buyers back. The system will overload and the fuse box will blow. And no amount of Fed fiddling will bring it back. No pot will be big enough this time.

And it won’t be just your stocks and your bank that will crash. The whole economy could tumble with it. Everything you own will be at risk. Your house. Your bonds. Your retirement. Maybe even your job.

The day of reckoning will have finally arrived. America’s party will be over. And the hangover from the unprecedented binge will be long. Very long.

But even if this nightmare scenario unfolds, there’s still no reason you have to get caught in it.

A Brief History of Derivatives

(The Most Dangerous and Controversial Financial Instruments Ever Created)

The giant bubble forming in the global derivatives market (led by America’s big banks) bears frightening resemblance to the S&L crisis. In the 1980s, a lack of regulation and oversight, allowed America's banks to trade dishonestly, hide losses and embezzle client and government funds. The same scenario is unfolding right now among the world's global derivatives traders. America's big banks, big corporations and mutual funds have turned into giant casinos...using unregulated over-the-counter and massively leveraged derivative bets as a new source of income...and as a way to disguise losses and dupe investors. The difference in the S&L crisis is that when the derivatives bubble finally blows, the fall-out will be 100 times worse. The S&L crisis cost American taxpayers hundreds of billions of dollars and depressed the real estate market for years. But no pot will be big enough to bail out America this time.

1973 The Chicago Board Options Exchange opens...and trading in large-scale derivatives begins.

1983 President Reagan signed the 1982 Futures Trading Act for derivatives. This was a major feature in the disastrous Reagan-era deregulation of the U.S. economy.

1986 The notational value of derivatives balloons to $618 billion...

1987 The failure of the stock markets and the derivatives markets to operate in sync, causes the collapse of global stock markets (according to the Presidential Task Force on Market Mechanisms)...and the terrific force of derivatives is felt for the first time.

1988 The notational value of derivatives hits the $1 trillion mark.

1994 Global derivatives market exceeds $10 trillion mark...and the first series of major derivatives failures begins. (Metallgesellschaft loses $1.5 billion on oil futures; Procter & Gamble loses $157 million by trading derivatives; Orange County, California, publicly acknowledges a $1.5 billion loss due to its derivatives plays, bankrupting the county).

1995 Barings Bank goes bust because one rogue trader, Nick Leeson, loses $1.4 billion with derivatives bets on the Nikkei index that were shattered by the Kobe earthquake.

1995 Wisconsin's $6.7 billion State Investment Board posts a $95 million loss from unauthorized use of derivatives.

1997 Under-regulated, derivative-based credit swap contracts cause the collapse of the Asian markets.

1998 The derivatives trading of a single hedge fund, Long Term Capital Management almost causes the collapse of global stock markets. Fed organizes a $3.5 billion bailout.

2000 Global derivatives positions leap to more than $95 trillion — even as the stock market crashes and the global economy goes into recession.

2001 Enron (without the public knowing it) had secretly transformed itself from an energy trader into an unregulated derivatives player, causing its eventual collapse.

2003 Fannie Mae loses $8.4 billion on its derivatives portfolio causing its stock to plummet.

2003 Buffett warns investors that the bubble in the derivatives market is a "mega-catastrophe waiting to happen." His comments send ripples through global markets.

2008 Global derivatives market exceeds $690 trillion (more than 12 times the size of the entire global economy).

How to Access "Secret" Financial Opportunities Set to Soar When the Derivatives Bubble Blows

In a moment I'm going to tell you about an extraordinary financial device that cannot only offer you safety from the macro-risks plaguing America and the global economy at the moment – but can also help you access “forbidden” financial opportunities set to soar when the derivatives bubble blows... including opportunities that have already shown our readers staggering gains of 1,794%...797%...70%...55%...and more. And which could produce 2 or 3 times those gains in 2008/2009. It's an opportunity that until recently was largely the province of the world's wealthiest investors. But now, thanks to an elite global asset protection publishing company, these opportunities can be yours...

My name is John Pugsley and I am Chairman of this organization. We call ourselves The Sovereign Society. We are a unique organization unlike any you have ever encountered before. Through a global team of influential and renowned researchers, thinkers, forecasters, and banking insiders, we are able to offer a small group of discerning readers recommendations, and opportunities not regularly available to the average American. You won't find these opportunities in Barron's or Business Week – even though they could provide for your assets a degree of protection and profit potential far beyond those available on Wall Street today. Let me show you what I mean...

The Fallout Shelters the Government Would Prefer You Knew Nothing About

History has taught us that in times of economic uncertainty a number of financial havens soar. They are those economies that have proven to be politically stable over the long-term...enjoy hard currencies backed by gold... boast strong financial industries with faultless track records...and bear little systemic risk...

Three of those havens are Switzerland, Austria, and the ancient Kingdom of Denmark. The currencies, companies, and investments in these places are flying at the moment – as the world's money floods into them in search of safety and profits.

Each country has been awarded a Triple A credit rating from Standard & Poor's...and each has been ranked repeatedly as one of the top 15 trading and economic countries in the world by IMD in their International

Are You Banking at One of These "Casinos?"

Derivatives were designed to help banks, corporations and countries hedge against risk. But banks found they could make a killing by concocting more exotic derivatives that effectively bet on the future direction of interest rates, foreign exchange, commodities, stock indexes and sub-prime mortgages. And since banks aren't making money from traditional lending any more, derivatives are a fantastic new way to net huge gains. And why not take some big risks when the Fed will “supposedly” back you – and the transactions can stay off the books – far away from the prying eyes of investors and analysts. As we see it, America's banks have turned into giant casinos. And now this Giant Casino Economy has begun to splinter. Are you banking with one of them?

World Competitiveness Report. What's more, Standard & Poor's has concluded that they hold no apparent systemic risks, as the savings positions of the private sector, both households and corporations, is strong. Compare that to American households and corporations who are drowning in a sea of debt.

Plus, these havens are also benefiting from the continuing transition of the Central and Eastern European economies into modern free-market economies.

That's why we've arranged for a number of financial products to be available for you in these havens...so you can take easy and instant advantage of the booming opportunities that lie in these and surrounding havens. It's an opportunity few American investors will ever know. And it's only been made possible thanks to The Sovereign Society's vast array of global contacts.

A Whole New World of Booming Financial Opportunities for You

The first major benefit you'll receive from The Sovereign Society is the opportunity to open up a private offshore bank account in Austria, Denmark, and/or Liechtenstein.

Opening a bank account in a leading offshore haven usually requires introductions and references...but as a member of The Sovereign Society, we will make the introductions for you.

Figures as of March 31 2008

Bank failures occur every year in America. There were more than 1,000 bank failures between the years 1986-1990 during the S&L debacle, which cost American taxpayers hundreds of billions of dollars and depressed the real estate market for years. And now considering the self-serving and dangerous practices Wall Street's banks have begun to engage in – where would you prefer to bank? In America or in age-old financial havens who've shown little systemic risk and who haven't experienced a bank failure in their 200-year old financial history? The Sovereign Society's preferred European banking resources are centuries old banks who don't either deal at all in dangerous instruments like derivatives, commercial loans or similar risky operations or do so only within Europe's stricter regulatory schemes. They will offer you the strictest standards in private banking...and ensure both the security and confidentiality of your affairs. You'll be able to monitor and access your account online. But you'll also be able to do a lot more...

An offshore account at a leading private European bank isn't like any ordinary High Street bank account. For instance, through your offshore account you'll be able to:

- Access a whole new world of global investment opportunities... including each one of the lucrative investment opportunities I'll tell you about in this letter...such as the special types of funds that have already netted gains of 187% and 45% for our members. (This is an extraordinary benefit most Americans will sadly never know.)
- Trade stocks, bonds, mutual funds, CDs, precious metals and currencies on markets everywhere...(including CDs that pay up to 25% after currency gains...and emerging market stocks and funds traded on exchanges that, historically, have soared as high as 264%... 337% ...and up to 1,998% over a time period of five to six years).
- Gain unrivalled asset protection in countries that have been the traditional havens of choice by the world's wealthiest families in times of war, scandal, and economic upheaval.
- Diversify your assets out of American dollars and convert them into currencies set to soar against the dollar in the volatile times ahead — like the rock-solid Swiss franc, the euro and many more commodity currencies...upon which our readers have already seen staggering gains of 1,794% and 797% by using select little-known currency investment techniques (which I'll tell you more about in a moment).
- Gain coveted information from some of the world's most trusted and established financial analysts and money managers. These are not young, brash Wall Street brokers peddling stocks that benefit them rather than you. They are experienced analysts that have managed the fortunes of institutional investors and the world's wealthiest families for decades, riding them safely through economic disaster after economic disaster — from the inflationary '70s to Black Monday and beyond.*

Investments that are Reaping Triple- and Quadruple-Digit Gains as New Mega-Trends Unfold

(Until now, many of these investments have been completely “secret”)

A number of major economic reversals have occurred since March 2000. Stocks ended their 19-year long bull-market. Gold ended its 20-year bear market. And the U.S. dollar ended its seven-year bull market. Commodities ended its 22-year bear market and began a profitable bull market in 2001. These events have already set in motion a number of important new trends. And I don't just mean minor trends, which generally last a few years. I mean mega-trends, which can last for 10 or 20 years. By taking advantage of these trends, you could make major profits for many years to come...

And I'm writing to you today to tell you that financial analysts in New York, London, Geneva, Panama City, Hong Kong, Montreal, and throughout the world are in agreement on one very important point: The financial tide has clearly changed.

Investors have lost faith in paper assets. After the decimation of the Great Tech Wreck, not to mention accounting scandals, broker scandals, economic and geopolitical disasters, stock market crashes – investors have been burned – and they've been burned hard. And it's going to be a long time before they fully recover from the scars. For many years ahead – no matter what happens - they're going to want tangible assets like gold, precious metals and commodities.

By recognizing these trends, we've already logged some of the most impressive gains any guru can claim to have made since March 2000. And I don't mean a few random one-hit wonders. I mean an impressive track record across a variety of investment classes and styles, including gold and precious metals, gold stocks, emerging market funds, offshore funds, foreign currencies and other little-known investment techniques that until recently were largely the luxury of the world's wealthiest investors.

Trust me, dear reader: A new era is in the making. And we can help you make a lot of money from it – very safely and very easily. Forget fast, high-risk paper profits in short-term stock-market rallies. Go with the mega-trends...and you'll do fine.

What's more although many of the alternative investment strategies I'll tell you about in this report are not normally available to U.S. citizens...you'll be able access them easily, legally and cost-effectively through your Austrian, Danish and/or Liechtenstein bank account.

See Gains of 1,794%...
797%...in Foreign Currencies!

Ballooning trade and budget deficits, rising inflation, and crippling future Social Security and Medicare obligations have cracked the foundation of the dollar's global power. The Great Era of Dollar Domination is over. But just as investors continue to dump dollars...a number of currencies will rise. And they will be currencies backed by hard assets. You'll learn about these currencies,

The Sovereign Society boasts an impressive list of top bankers and experts who have been long established in the strong regions in which we research. You'll get first-hand knowledge from them on how best to profit from the many booming opportunities that lie in these areas. This is just a selection of them...

Thomas Fischer: A Danish banker with over two decades experience as a foreign exchange dealer, broker, and banker. Thomas currently holds a senior position at one of Denmark's oldest banks.

Andrew Griebel: Director of Private Banking at Euram (European American Investment Bank AG) in Vienna, Austria. Andrew has acted as investment counsel to high and the easiest ways to invest in them in a special report we'll send you when you join called Currencies for the Long Run.

Michael Andrew has acted as investment counselor to high net worth U.S., U.K., and Latin American families and their advisors.

Even though the currency market is one of the oldest, biggest, most liquid (and fastest growing) on the planet, and even though it is far less volatile than stocks, and is infinitely easier to read, to predict and to play...it is still very new to the mainstream investor. For many years, currencies were largely an asset class that belonged only to the realm of Fortune 500 companies, institutional investors, professional traders, and the Soroses and the Buffetts of the world...

But now thanks to revolutionary new financial instruments, you can play the currency markets just as easily as you would play the stock markets!

You'll learn all about these radical new currency investments in Currencies for the Long Run, and in special monthly bulletins you'll receive as a member of the Sovereign Society.

You'll also learn about many secret ways to make big profits in hard currencies with very little risk.

Meet Your Team of Leading Foreign Currency and Precious Metals
Experts

Jack Crooks: Jack has close to 20 years experience in the currency, equity, and futures arena. Jack is a seasoned investment advisor who has held key positions in brokerage, money management, trading, and research. He has written extensively on the subject of global currencies and international economics. His insights on currencies have been published in many prestigious publications across the globe from the Asia Times to the currency industry's leading periodical, Futures magazine. Jack has also been interviewed on CNBC for his insights on the Japanese yen.

Michael Checkan: One of the first foreign exchange traders ever to operate in America. His firm developed the world's first government-guaranteed precious metals storage program. From Michael you'll learn some of the safest, latest and best ways to invest in precious metals.

For example, in the Dollar Crash of 2002, our recommendations showed staggering gains of 1,794% and 797% – with minimal risk – by betting against the U.S. dollar. By anticipating the negative affects war and other economic disasters would have on the dollar...we decided to recommend “renting” a number of hard currencies for far less than their real values. It ultimately allowed investors to buy $21,312 of euros at only $1,125. The $1,125 was all that was at risk – to give them the “right” to buy a large amount of euros by a certain date in the future. Because the euro appreciated greatly against the dollar, we encouraged members to exercise their right and recommended buying $21,312 worth of euro. Members could have turned $1,125 into $21,312 in just 11 months and seen a staggering 1,794% gain. We did the same thing again with Swiss francs and saw a further 797%. Many more of these explosive opportunities will arise in the volatile times ahead. This little-known investment technique will allow you to tap into rare opportunities that you won't find on Wall Street. You'll learn all about it in your special investment alerts and your private monthly bulletins. Plus you'll learn why these techniques could produce 2 or 3 times those gains in 2008/2009.

No Rush Like the Coming Great Global Gold Rush

In times of crisis, people grasp for tangible investments, things like gold and silver, and other essential commodities that the global economy simply can't do without.

In the last commodities bull market, gold went up a staggering 23-fold. That was through the inflationary '70s – one of the worst periods for U.S. stocks in economic history. In times of uncertainty, investors rush to gold. And in the oil-shocked, commodity-starved, inflation-afflicted volatile times ahead, gold will shoot to the stars.

This won't be like the gold bull market in the '70s. It will be much bigger. For we now have a lot of new players on the global stage. And as energy shocks, commodity crunches and derivatives disasters continue to rock global markets, these new players will get very hungry for the immortal metal. The 2.3 billion Chinese and Indians have already begun to show their voracious appetite for the metal. But this is only the beginning. When gold lust spreads from the contrarians to mainstream investors to the general public, then you'll truly see that there is no rush like a great global gold rush.

Double and Triple Digit Gains on Almost Every Gold Stock!

And we believe this is just the beginning of a great new bull market in gold.

What's more, there hasn't been a big gold discovery for many years. And despite soaring global demand, the World Gold Council expects gold production to stay flat or even decline over the next few years. The infrastructure is already woefully inadequate to meet current demand. But once demand really heats up, a massive supply gap will open up, causing the price of gold to skyrocket.

The argument for gold today is so compelling there really is no greater investment for the volatile times ahead. In a special investment alert we'll rush you when you sign—up for a risk-free trial membership to the Sovereign Society you'll learn all about some of the best ways to invest in this precious metal. It's called: The Dirt Digger: 8 Great Ways to Profit from $75 Silver and $2,500 Gold!

Plus, in the special private monthly bulletins and daily e-letters we'll send you when you join, you'll also learn about many more little-known ways to profit safely from gold, silver, silver bullion coins, precious metal mining stocks and mutual funds, platinum, rare coins, colored diamonds and other commodities...

Two More Crisis-Proof Commodities (And Six Easy Ways to Cash in on Them)

No matter what happens in the volatile years ahead, there are two things that the global economy and the global population simply won't be able to do without: Food and Energy.

With the population exploding, and the emerging mega-markets industrializing, it will put a major strain on the Earth's natural resources.

We already have over six billion people to feed and fuel. And within a single generation, we'll have another two. Plus the collapse of communism and the rise of the Internet have allowed the vast developing world to leapfrog into the modern age virtually overnight. This rapid industrialization is being led by the BRIC nations (Brazil, Russia, India and China – a market of almost three billion new capitalists). As these nations' middle classes rise, so too will their appetites, and their energy needs.

Right now, they only consume a mere fraction of the food and energy that the industrialized nations consume. For example, China only uses one-eighteenth the amount of oil per capita that America uses. As these developing nations play catch-up, it will place enormous pressure on our tight global food and energy supply. This means food and energy prices could continue to head skyward. While this may not be good for our personal pocketbooks, for those companies who will help feed and fuel the exploding global population, we believe they will gobble up profits the likes of which they've never before seen.

In another online special investment alert we'll rush you when you join you'll learn about:

- The Agricultural Relic that's Enjoying a Huge Comeback! It is the leading company in the world today that is making farming more efficient, faster, and cheaper. Watch out for its latest generation of GPS-guided agricultural machines, which include tractors that can work the fields alone without the need for a driver! The pent-up global demand for innovative agricultural products like these can hardly be measured in a world desperate to be fed and fuelled!
- America's Next ExxonMobil. This company is destined to become "the Green Gas Station to the World!" It is already the world leader in Bio-Energy. It is the largest producer of ethanol in the U.S., and one of the largest producers of biodiesel in Europe. And that's just on its first generation Bio-Fuels. It has an ambitious multi-decade plan for the production and proliferation of its next generation BioFuels. And right now, you can buy it cheap. In fact, it's one of the cheapest gas stations on the block!
- The 206-Year-Old Biotech Company...that the world will call upon more than all the others to help feed and fuel us in the coming decades!
- The Easiest and Surest Way to Play the Coming Soft Commodity Bull Market. Soft commodities like corn, wheat, soybeans, and sugar have been trading at depression-level prices for years. But after a 30-year bear market they're fast becoming the new stars on Wall Street. Soft commodities soared 5-47 fold during their last bull market in the '70s. This time they may soar even higher. And you can ride them all the way to the top with this one little investment.

You'll learn about all these (and two other great crisis-proof stocks) in The BioEconomy's Six Biggest Profit Takers.

You could be positioned to profit – big time – from any disaster the future may have in store for you! It's a win-win portfolio...and a completely new way of organizing your finances that the average American mutual fund investor will never know.

You will not only survive through the volatile years ahead...but you could thrive. Your wealth could stand tall against whatever shocks and surprises the world throws at it. While terrorist attacks, wars, broker scandals, accounting scandals and derivatives disasters break out in America, you could be sitting smug far removed from the evils of Wall Street...racking up huge gains offshore...

I look forward to sharing more with you in the fascinating months ahead!

Sincerely,

P.S. The bursting dot.com bubble...the ballooning trade deficit...and the slowing U.S. economy have cracked the foundation of the dollar's global power. The Great Era of Dollar Domination is over. And now a giant derivative disaster is cracking the foundations of the American economy. But just as investors continue to dump dollars...a number of currencies will rise. And just as great economic super powers fall, others will rise. By understanding these events you can cash in on major new economic mega-trends that are already showing smart readers gains of 1,794%... 797%...146%...82%...146% and more. If you employ the emergency strategies mentioned in this report, you could start seeing these gains, too!
